Recommended on sale. This needs a map editor / workshop for people to contribute better level designs. (or else the dev. needs to improve it.) As-is (late 2016), it's worth maybe $2 on sale. But if there was more selection of good level designs it could be worth the full $6 price (and I'd update my review). Until the level availability is improved just play the demo or get it on sale. It starts out good, but then very suddenly gets very annoyingly way too hard, too soon. not a smooth progression. the fun just slams to a sudden halt rather than gradually becoming more challenging. Unfortunately the lack of progression can't be seen in the Demo. The first few levels are quite easy and fast (once you get used to the basic control) and you'll get through them in maybe 2 attempts. Then at Level 6, "Gauntlet of the Gods" it abruptly gets more than 10x harder and you'll burn up an hour repeating the same level over and over. Then it's time to uninstall because the repetition of getting farther through it inch by inch on each replay is too grindy, and be glad you only spent $2 for a 6 level game. There should be a gradual increase in interesting challenges of fuel management, navigation, and shooting. It's basically a remake of some of the earliest oldschool moon landers, but with shooting added, and other embellishments, which does make it more interesting & fun. The voice is simply annoying and repetitive, not actually amusing. But you can turn the volume way down. The music works well with it.. Recommended on sale. I can't stop just giving it one more go.. no direction for gun doesn't fire half the time. Indy gaming sinks to new lows with this ripoff of Moon Lander from decades ago. You can play this kind of game for free in Flash or in a web browser.. CAN BE BOUGHT! Well you get what you see, a lightweight flying-2D-flying simulator. Unexpected, that this game has nice control and really a gameplay that make fun for some time. If you like the graphics you can buy it.. Really fun little game. Works well on a game pad & has lovely particle effects. Reminds me so much of old Amiga game. Having the Blue Danube Waltz in the background is fun & keeps you feeling like you are maneuvering a ship out of 2001 even though it's just a simple game. Honestly you won't regret buying this one.. bizzarly addictive, if only i could change what the robot voice says when you lose would be hilarious, also a way to change controls and maybe power ups and a level editor.. It's like the old school Lunar Lander, but with weapons (always wanted that)!!! The vector style graphics and awesome robotic voice make this a nostalgic blast!!! A+ on this game designers. Would like to see an update that allows different background music choices.
